

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Dan APĂTEANU, PhD, is assistant professor at the University of Oradea, Department of Political Science and Communication. Email: danapateanu@yahoo.com.

Lyutsiya BUKHARMETOVA is a Master student at the University of Flensburg in Germany, has obtained her Bachelor degree at the Moscow State University in Russia in the field of International Relations and was a participant of the Erasmus exchange programme in Prague. Contact: luvishla@gmail.com.

Ivan Ng Yan CHAO completed his undergraduate LLB at the Faculty of Law of the National University of Singapore. He is currently a Master's candidate in Southeast Asian Studies at the Department of Southeast Asian Studies, at the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences of the National University of Singapore. His research interests are in immigration, ethnic politics and security issues. Contact: ivanngyancho@u.nus.edu.

Joanna DZIOŃEK-KOZŁOWSKA, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Economics with the University of Lodz, Poland. She holds a Ph.D. in Economic Thought and her research interests include Ethics, Homo Oeconomicus, and Impact of Economic Education on Ethical Behavior. For the last several years, she has been researching the influence of economics education on collaboration and teamwork. Her writings have appeared in the top journals in economic history, economic thought, and ethics in the US and Europe. Contact: jdzionek@uni.lodz.pl.

Antonela Gyöngy is associated assistant professor at the Faculty of European Studies, Babeş-Bolyai University in Cluj-Napoca. She studied Journalism and European Studies, followed by doctoral studies in sociology. In her PhD thesis, she dealt with cinematic constructions of collective memory. Her main research interests are: contemporary- and cultural history, memory politics in Europe, visual culture, identity politics, media and communication, international relations. Contact: gy_antonela@yahoo.com.

Peruvemba S. JAYA is Associate Professor at the Department of Communication, University of Ottawa. She has a PhD in Business Administration (Organizational Behaviour and Organizational Studies) from the University of Rhode Island, USA, MA in Sociology from the Delhi School of Economics, University of Delhi, India and BA (Hons) in Sociology from the University of Delhi, India. Her research interests include the areas of gender diversity and multiculturalism in the workplace, immigration and gender, immigrant women, South Asian immigrant women's experience, immigrants' issues, postcolonial theory, intercultural communication as well as ethnic media, qualitative research methodologies. Contact: jperuvem@uottawa.ca.

Justice Richard Kwabena Owusu KYEI holds a PhD degree in sociology. He is a lecturer in the Department of Sociology and Social Work in Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology (KNUST), Kumasi. His research interests are: social theory, migration, political sociology and African studies. He is an adjunct fellow in the Centre for Cultural and African Studies, KNUST.

Cristina MATIUȚA, PhD, is Associate Professor at the University of Oradea, Department of Political Science and Communication. She teaches in the areas of Civil Society, Political Parties and Theory and practice of democracy. She is Jean Monnet professor in the field of European integration studies. Contact: cmatiuta@uoradea.ro.

Andreea Florentina NICOLESCU is Ph.D Student at the Bucharest University of Economic Studies, Romania. Contact: andreea_nicolescu93@yahoo.com.

Reverend Fr. Richmond OSEI AMOAH is a Catholic priest in the Catholic Archdiocese of Kumasi. He has a Master of Arts degree in Religion and Human Values. He is a chaplain and a tutor in Saint Louis College of Education. His areas of interest in research are morality, social cohesion and religious integration.

IRINA POP is PhD lecturer at the University of Oradea. She is specialized in place branding and PR communication. She obtained a MA diploma at Lancaster University. Her current research interest is focused on the issue of trafficking of human beings and the public perception of this phenomenon. E-mail: popirinamihaela@gmail.com.

Lia POP, PhD, is university professor at the Department of Political Sciences and Communication, University of Oradea, researcher and the founder of the Research Center for Identity and Migration Issues (RCIMI).

Sharaf REHMAN, PhD, is professor of Communication at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley. He studied at the London Film School, UK, University of Lund, Sweden, and Bowling Green State University, Ohio. For the past 40 years, he has taught Communication (film & theater) at universities in Asia, Europe, and the United States of America. He served as the founding Department Chair for Communication at the University of Texas-Brownsville, and as Associate Dean for the College of International Communication at Lynn University, Florida. His research has appeared in numerous international journals in the areas of mass communication, intercultural studies, marketing, economics, and ethics. He has published several collections of plays and poetry. Many of his plays have been internationally produced. In 2016, he co-scripted an award-winning feature film, The Whole. Contact: sharaf.rehman@utrgv.edu.

Rafal SMOCZYNSKI is a sociologist, an associate professor at Institute of Philosophy and Sociology of the Polish Academy of Sciences. His research interest focuses on social control, migration, sociology of religion, social theory, sociology of markets. His publications were included in e.g. Oxford University Press, de Gruyter, Ethnic and Racial Studies, East European Politics and Societies and Cultures, Czech Sociological Review. He was involved in research projects funded by e.g. EU 6FP, Research Council of Norway, DAAD, National Sciences Centre (Poland), Visegrad Fund, the Korea Foundation. He acted also as a visiting professor at e.g. Ferdowsi University, National Dong Hwa University.

Marius Ioan TĂȚAR, PhD, is Lecturer in Political Science at the University of Oradea, Department of Political Science and Communication and former Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the University of Lausanne, Switzerland. His main research areas include political participation and democratization in Central and Eastern Europe. E-mail: mariustatar@yahoo.com.